

Prevailing Wage and Apprenticeship Compliance

Simplify the process, and unlock your full Inflation Reduction Act tax credits

The Inflation Reduction Act (IRA) offers significant tax incentives for clean energy projects, but only if you meet and correctly document the Prevailing Wage and Apprenticeship (PWA) requirements. Projects that meet PWA requirements receive up to five times the base tax credit, making compliance essential for maximum returns.

Our dedicated IRA compliance specialists will work with your team to provide detailed construction and labor records related to Terracon's work on the project along with the documentation of Terracon's work that is needed for IRS submission.

Additionally, Terracon maintains a pool of registered construction craft laborer apprentices who can quickly mobilize to your project sites. Terracon journeyworkers mentor apprentices to maintain consistent, quality work and compliance with the Department of Labor's apprenticeship ratios.

Optimizing project cost, efficiency, and compliance has never been easier. With Terracon's nationwide footprint and the nation's largest fleet of geotechnical drill rigs, our integrated approach offers rapid deployment to your project sites with skilled, competent, and IRA/PWA-compliant crews. Our IRA compliance specialists handle the documentation to meet the requirements, maximize your tax incentives, and remove the complexity for your team.
